

A GIVING HEART

WVSOM GRADUATES

Proudly Meeting a Vital Healthcare Need in West Virginia

David Carr, DO
Family Medicine Physician

Tug River Health Association
Gary, WV McDowell County

A COMPASSIONATE SOUL

Dr. David Carr is West Virginia through and through. Raised in Parkersburg, educated at Marshall University, attended medical school at WVSOM, and a lifelong medical practitioner in the Mountain State.

Dr. Carr arrived in McDowell County in 1982, possessing a WVSOM medical degree and intent on making a difference. Twenty-five years later, his impact on healthcare in the community is undeniable.

At the rural Tug River Clinic, Dr. Carr treats patients in an area of the state suffering from a lack of health professionals. Many of his patients have little or no insurance. Carr realizes he won't get wealthy practicing in tiny Gary, WV, but to him it's not about the money. "You can't put a price tag on the value of a human life," he says.

A giving heart...a compassionate soul...and determined to make a difference.

WVSOM graduates like Dr. David Carr embody these values in caring for the residents of rural West Virginia.

DETERMINED TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE
